All Exhibits to Be in Place When Great Exposition Begins.

ings they have arranged for six great courts, each of which, forming the walls of the buildings surrounding it, expresses the individual ideas of the architect who planned it, thereby being in complete harmony of design while entirely differentiated from all others. Standing in any one of these courts and looking northward the visitor gets pictures of bay and mountains framed within the arches of the architectural triumphs.

LANDSCAPING GROUNDS.

While the great exhibit palaces were being designed those entrusted with the landscaping of the grounds have not been idle. Hundreds of thousands of trees, shrubs, vines and flowers are being put in to the great proportion and set out in accord with a plan that will harmonize with the architectural and color scheme of the buildings. Vines will be set out on removable trellises, close alongside the exhibit palaces, so that when the support is removed they may be attached to the walls.

Already fifteen foreign governments, including France and Japan, have officially accepted the invitation of the exposition to be invited to participate and thirty states and territories have appointed commissioners to select sites for state buildings. Unofficial assurances have also been received from nearly a score of other nations that they will be represented by exhibits.

PROGRESSIVES BUSY IN ALL PARTS OF COUNTRY

Governor Johnson in Michigan and Roosevelt in Montana

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 7.—This was the last working day of one of the most bitterly contested State campaigns waged in Maine in a Presidential year for a generation.

The two candidates for Governor, Frederick W. Plaisted, Democrat, who seeks a second term, and William T. Haines, his Republican opponent, arranged to continue speaking almost up to the last minute.

Since the Progressives have not an independent ticket in the field, it is felt in Maine that the result of the Monday election will not be awaited with such interest as was the outcome of last Tuesday's balloting in Vermont.

JOHNSON IN MICHIGAN.

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 7.—Governor Johnson is speeding across Michigan today, preaching the Progressive doctrine of social and industrial justice to crowds assembled around the rear platform of his special train. Prolonged applause met his declaration that the new party should make life brighter for the people rather than make money for the few financial interests.

"This is not what you would call a political speech," he said at Ann Arbor. "It is a crusade we are making."

"This is humanity's fight, not only for you and yours, but for those who follow. You need not fear the politicians in this fight. This movement springs from the people."

"Government must solve the question of social and industrial justice if government would last."

T. R. SPEAKS IN MONTANA.

HATHAWAY, Mont., Sept. 7.—After an all-night ride from Fargo, N. D., Colonel Roosevelt came into Senator Dixon's State today. He was to speak in Billings, Livingston, Logan and Helena, and then have the first night's rest away from his train which his campaign manager has permitted him since he started on the tour, remaining in Helena all night, and leaving for Spokane early Sunday morning.

In a brief speech to a crowd of men and women, who had arisen earlier than usual, Colonel Roosevelt said his opponents had made every charge against him that could be thought of, including the statement that he wanted to be king.

"I am accused of wanting to rule the country with an iron hand," he said. "I am always inclined to answer that the people who make this statement don't know kings, or else they would not put down as my ambition to be one. They don't know kings and I do. Other things I would like to be but not king."

"They don't know kings and I do. Other things I would like to be but not king."

MANY SHINGLES FOR THIS PORT

A Great Share of Humboldt County Product Is Landed in Oakland.

That the manufacture of shingles is gradually becoming one of the largest industries of Eureka is the statement of passengers arriving here from that port. Not only are the shingle concerns receiving a good market in California, but interior points are beginning to send in orders for them. The local lumber handlers have been foremost in buying up large shingle shipments and probably as much as 25 per cent of those shipped south from Eureka are used here.

In accordance with the steady increase in orders the price of the shingles is also advancing. The advance in price, however, is slight and does not materially affect the market. A slight advance in the freight rates has also been made, the rate now being 27 1/2 cents per 1000 to this port, while it is predicted that the price will run up to 30 cents before the month is out. Should this prediction prove true the market price of shingles will undoubtedly advance accordingly. During the month of August it is estimated that something over 35,000,000 shingles were shipped from the northern port and it is expected that this month will probably eclipse even this figure.

RACE FROM AUSTRALIA.

No word has as yet been heard of the position of the schooner Polaris and the barkentine James Johnson, two familiar windhammers of this port which are racing from this coast to Australia to determine whether a barkentine or schooner is the speedier sailer. The race between the two vessels has awakened considerable interest from marine men along the entire coast and much money will change hands when the exact results of the race are made known. As both the Johnson and Polaris have during their operations on this coast always kept on even terms little can be judged as to the finish of the contest. It is thought that within the next two weeks some news will be brought in telling of the positions of the two sailers.

The river steamer Alviso of the Pacific Freight and Transportation Company's line, which operates between here and San Francisco, has been taken from her regular run and was laid up on the beach off the south side of the channel this morning. The Alviso, which is one of the oldest river steamers in service at the present time on the bay, will be laid up temporarily for a short time when she will again operate on her regular run.

DANIEL EMERY FOUND DEAD WITH WIFE

The Son of Boston Millionaire Thought to Have Strangled Spouse and Shot Himself.

Double Tragedy in Maine Follows Estate Which Owned Famous "Emery Claim."

PORTAGE LAKE, Me., Sept. 7.—A double tragedy was revealed here last night, the Mayor and other town officials entering an entrance to the home of Daniel C. Emery and found the bodies of Emery and his wife in one of the bedrooms. Mrs. Emery had been strangled to death, in the opinion of the authorities, and Emery's death was due to bullet wounds in the head. Neither Emery nor his wife had been seen since Wednesday and the authorities believe Mrs. Emery was killed Wednesday night and that Emery shot himself last night.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Daniel C. Emery was the son of the late George D. Emery, a millionaire importer of mahogany, rosewood and other South American woods. The son's property was in charge of a trustee. He was divorced from his first wife, who remarried and is living in Indiana with two children. Two years ago Emery married a nurse in this city and went to live in Maine.

The estate of the elder Emery is the owner of the celebrated "Emery claim" against the Republic of Nicaragua.

USES COURT TO SCARE HUSBAND

Wife Is Reconciled to Man Who Took Trip With Affinity.

On the plea of his wife that she did not wish to prosecute the case she had brought against her husband, Judge Turner yesterday afternoon ordered the release of Harry Ronald, a promoter, on his own recognizance. Mrs. Ronald promised that she would have her husband in court for the preliminary examination, which is set for September 18.

Ronald was arrested on his return from a two-months tour spent with an affinity. Mrs. Ronald had planned to use the police and courts to scare her husband, so that he would not leave her again, but was greatly distressed when she found it difficult to obtain his release from prison.

Reconciliation, which has been effected between the two, will probably result in the court action being dropped. Ronald has promised to provide for his wife.

The heavy cement run at Long wharf is still keeping up. Yesterday afternoon the steamer Ravalli sailed for Berkeley with the tools of the trade in her hatchets, while it is expected that several vessels will arrive today to load cement for the north.

Sailings from the inner harbor yesterday included the steam schooner Cacao, Francis H. Leggett, Hardy and Casper.

The steam schooner Redondo, Captain Magee, from Redondo, is at Long wharf discharging lumber.

The steam schooner North Fork, Captain Nelson, sailed this morning for Eureka.

The Victim of Horrible Crime Found With Throat Cut and Body Slashed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—With her throat cut from ear to ear and her body horribly slashed, Lydia Berger, proprietress of a lodging house at 1218 Stockton street and a woman of the half world, was found murdered this afternoon. The discovery was made by an employee of the house, who broke into the room and found the body lying between the bed and the wall in a pool of blood.

Robbery was evidently the motive.

The crime is believed to have been committed early this morning. Mrs. Berger retired to her room at 3 o'clock this morning. It is believed that large quantity of jewelry was stolen from her. Her left arm was almost severed. Her shoulders were slashed and her face and arms cut.

SECOND DEATH BLAMED TO BAILEY

Accused of Slaying Wife Prior to Other Crimes for Which He Was Jailed.

Dying Woman Said to Have Told Neighbors Husband Poisoned Her.

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 7.—Evidence tending to show third mysterious death in connection with the Scottie case was adduced at Mardi Gras Monday night, for which Al Watson and Mrs. Bailey are in jail here, was unearthed when Richard Wilcox, a dinner of Shreveport, told Sheriff Flournoy that Bailey was accused by his first wife of having contrived her death by poisoning.

Mrs. Bailey and Watson, according to the police, have given a written confession of the murder of the former's husband and the latter's wife. According to the story told by Wilcox, just before she died Mrs. Bailey repented the accusation to Wilcox's wife and the two sailed for California. Wilcox states that they made no return.

On the day after the woman's death, Wilcox said, his wife found a three-ounce bottle partly filled with chloroform among the coverings of Mrs. Bailey's bed and hidden in the mattress was another bottle labeled poison.

REAL SINNERS? WHO ARE THEY?

Probation Officer Says They Are the So-called Good People.

"What the Juvenile Court Reveals" was discussed last night before the Men's Social Service Forum in the First Congregational church in Oakland, Rev. W. Palmer presiding, by Probation Officer Christopher Pitts and Assistant Probation Officer Miss B. A. McCull.

The Juvenile court revealed, said Miss McCull, that the real sinners are the accused bad people who commit the little sins of commission, which are punished as crimes, while the so-called good people commit the big sins of omission, which are unpunished, except that the whole city is punished for them in worse conditions.

Movements for better child labor laws and for a minimum wage for women are good enough, but the bottom problem is poverty. Why should women work at all and leave their children uncared for at home or on the streets?

Why should the strain be put on families to take children from school and play and home into early wage-earning? We strain at the gnat of white slavery and swallow the camel of the great social evil, of which it is a small part. We need to make our community home clean and safe. At present our community abounds in entrances to "ladies' pleasure" pleasure resorts. We need a social alliance and political action against the so-called bad people.

"The Juvenile Court," said Probation Officer Pitts, "reveals the selflessness and superciliousness of the average citizen, and the persistence of good in people, after all, despite the fact that community conditions make it so easy for weak people to go wrong and so hard for them to go right. We are selfishly isolated in zones of well-to-do, middle class and poor, and few of us know how the other nine-tenths live. Fewer still follow the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew and visit the forgotten unfortunates in jails, insane hospitals and orphanages, etc. We are unthanked. We are willing enough that fifty thousand girls a year take the places of as many killed off by the diseases of the tenderloin, so long as it does not come nigh us and take our daughters and sisters. Not that our hearts are wrong, but we do not think. We do not care for our Christianity seriously.

"We are superficial. We take delight in paper victories in winning dead letter laws. We provide industrial education on the part of boys who will commit crimes and go to the reform school, and boast our school system. We clean our well-to-do and middle class district of the saloon by banishing it to the business district, so-called, which means the area where the very poor live, where the poverty map of the Associated Charities is thickest dotted. We give our sons complete education to the best of our ability, and then pay police to patrol and protect from disturbance of the peace the double-standard red light district, which the young men throng. We need expression, however, even more than repression. We need municipal clubhouses, social centers, where all the people without privilege may have a good time such as does not leave a dark brown taste the next day. Construction must go hand in hand with righteous destruction."

FEEL SHAKY, BILIOUS, HEADACHY, OR CONSTIPATED? TAKE GASCARETS

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver, delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Poisonous constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and dull, sickening headache. Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation poison move on and out of the bowels. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will soothe you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Children need Cascarets, too—they love them because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

TAFT AT HOME; ANKLE IS BETTER

Holds Political Conference and Hopes to Be Able Soon to Resume Golf.

BEVERLY, Sept. 7.—President and Mrs. Taft landed from the yacht Mayflower today at West Beach, near Beverly. Chairman Charles Hillis and Treasurer George R. Sheldon of the Republican national committee, and a party of Mrs. Taft's friends accompanied them. The party was driven to the Taft cottage.

The President's lame ankle seemed better and he entered his automobile with greater ease. He apparently suffered little pain. He hopes to be able to resume playing golf next week.

The President continued today his political conference. In addition to Hillis and Sheldon he had as guests at luncheon Republican National Committee Charles F. Brooker of Connecticut and Charles H. V. Clark of Hartford.

NOTED AIR MEN ARE DRAWN BY GORDON BENNET CUP

Third International Aviation Meet Attracts Famous Foreign Pilots.

GLENN CURTISS WAS FIRST YANKEE WINNER

Skill and Daring of Operators to Be Shown in Chicago World Show.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—America's third International aviation meet, which opens Monday, will establish a new mark for America in the number of aviators of international fame entered. The first of the stars are the pilots of the foreign and American racers who compete in the Gordon Bennett world's championship in a monoplane race, the first event of the meet.

The meeting embraces daily monoplane and biplane handicap races, a scratch biplane and monoplane race which is designed to give further demonstration of the skill of the Gordon Bennett drivers, and a 40-kilometer race for all times handicapped. Other contests are bomb and mail throwing, accuracy landing contests from heights of 1000 feet, without a mark, and similar events in which skill of the operator is tested.

This is the fourth time the aeroplanes have been matched for the world's championship, as typified by the $10,000 silver trophy given by James Gordon Bennett in 1908 to be contested for annually by licensed pilots of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale.

CURTIS FIRST WINNER.

Twice before a single American entrant has driven his aeroplane ahead of his competitors and brought the silver trophy to America. Glenn H. Curtiss was the first winner, at Reims, France, August 28, 1909. His biplane piloted the 24.2-kilometer race in 10 minutes 30 seconds, or five seconds ahead of the second-place winner, Louis Bleriot's monoplane. There were five starters, but only four of the flyers were able to cover the distance, which was considered an almost impossible journey for an aeroplane.

In New York, on the Belmont Park aerodrome, the second contest was held. The course had been lengthened to 100 kilometers (62.14 miles), and Claude Grahame-White, England's best known aviator, won in 11 minutes 40 seconds, in the first 100-kilometer section, in the first 100-horse-power Bleriot monoplane built. Alfred Lablanc of France led in the race in a similar machine up to the last lap of the field, when he ran out of gasoline and in landing crashed into a telegraph pole and smashed his aeroplane.

CAPTURED FROM ENGLAND.

Grahame-White's victory took the trophy to England, where it was contested for in 1911 on the Isle of Sheppi at Eastchurch, July 1. Chas. Terres Weymann, sole American entrant again, went up in a 100-horse-power Nielsport monoplane and captured the trophy. His time for the 165 kilometers was 11 minutes 36 seconds, a speed of 78 miles an hour, thus a world's record. Lablanc again after the world's championship, had to content himself with second, being two minutes slower than Weymann.

Speed alone determines the winner, there being no restriction on the construction of the aeroplane. Because of the high speeds attained, few aviators have cared to enter, and in the three events held previously, total of thirteen entrants only appear on the lists.

This year the race has been lengthened to 200 kilometers (124 miles), and the course was laid out as an ellipse of 4.14 miles, requiring thirty laps to complete the races. In the French elimination trials Jules Vedrines made a speed of 106 miles an hour, which established expectation as to what speed would be made by the choice machines of the six nations competing—America, England, France, Holland, Belgium and Switzerland.

France designated Jules Vedrines and Maurice Prevest, pilots of Deneudres monoplanes, and Andre Frey, who drives an Hanriot monoplane, as its representatives. England had named Claude Grahame-White, Gustave Hamel and George Dwyer, but it was not certain until the last minute just who would make the actual flight.

U. S. HAS NOT CHOSEN.

Belgium's representative, Charles Morok, died of typhoid fever a few days before the race, and Jan Wymans, who was to represent Holland, was so disappointed in the showing of his Derts monoplane he withdrew. Edmund Audemars, Switzerland's representative, was not certain of his starting and as for America the choice of pilot will not be definitely settled until the day before the race. An American defender is prepared to an 180-horsepower motor, the largest aero motor ever designed.

The hydroaeroplane, or airboat, aviation contests are the first ever held outside of the military competitions held in France for selection of government machines. The contests must continue five days, during which races and contests are evolved to demonstrate how the multi-use machine may be guided on the water, be raised into the air and flown as a flying boat.

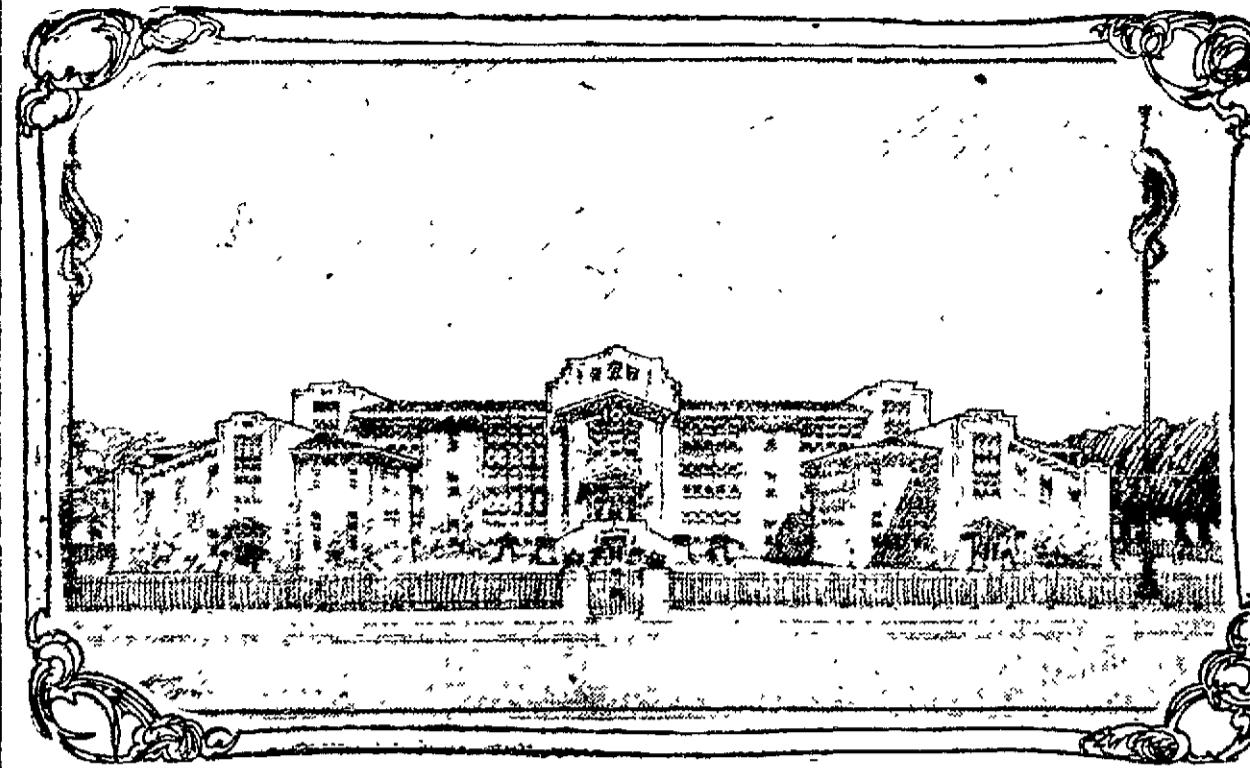

In addition efficiency prizes have been offered, the contest being the number of passengers carried the length of time one, two and three extra persons may remain aloft, and other similar competitions.

MILITARY GUARD AT JAIL TO BE REDUCED

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 7.—It was officially announced today that the military force now on riot duty at the state prison at Jackson probably will be reduced early next week unless there is some change in the situation. A military force will be maintained at the prison until the prison board of control and Warden Simpson decide such assistance is longer necessary, it was said.

TIMBER COMPANY BLAMED BY AGENT

Southern Pacific Official Gives Railway Side of Land Grant Wrangle.

PORTLAND, Sept. 7.—Placing upon the shoulders of the Booth-Kelly Lumber company full responsibility and blame for the Harriman order of 1903, withdrawing 2,300,000 acres of the Oregon and California's grant lands from entry or sale, C. W. Eberlein, former land commissioner of the Southern Pacific, introduced a novel idea into the land forfeiture hearing.

Because the big lumber and timber company of the Willamette Valley wanted a monopoly, and though it coerced the rail-way into selling its timbered holdings to the one great concern, Eberlein said, war was declared on the Southern Pacific. One result of the struggle was that the Southern Pacific concluded to withdraw all its grant lands from the market.

Eberlein also said that the records and titles had become badly confused and that the withdrawal was partly to enable the company to get these affairs in shape. The San Francisco fire destroyed a large part of all records, making it necessary to maintain the withdrawal for an indefinite period.

No reference was made by the former land commissioner to the alleged declaration of F. M. Harriman that he would keep these grants as a great woodland for the entire Harriman system.

BANKERS INSTALL CHAPTER OFFICERS

Delegates to National Conference Describe Result of Big Gathering.

The Oakland Chapter of the American Institute of Banking held an installation of the new officers last evening as a result of the selection made at the polling places in Oakland, Fruitvale, East Oakland and Berkeley by the Australian ballot.

A. E. Caldwell was chosen president; J. S. Killam, vice-president; S. C. Scott, secretary and treasurer.

Following the ceremonies of installation, there was a smoker in the clubrooms, and the various delegates just returned from the national convention held in Salt Lake City, August 21 to 23, gave an exceedingly interesting account of their reception at the chapter in that city.

Frank Corbin, Charles Dunsmore, Matthew Bronner, W. F. Moorish, Golden L. R. Gilmore gave some valuable information to the delegates relative to the new courses of study in banking, finance and economics for the bank clerks who are members of the institute.

Three new members for the Board of Governors were elected. They are, George Gilmore, J. E. Smith and Oscar Smith.

TO TAKE CHARGE OF TIME TABLES

State Railroad Commission to Assume New Duties After October 1.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The State Railroad Commission yesterday decided that on and after October 1, next, it will assume supervisory authority over all passenger train time tables of California railroads.

At that date the roads must file three copies of the schedules with the commission. They must get the permission of the commission in making any changes in the tables and file revised schedules within ten days before they go into effect.

Roads must also post in two places in every waiting room of each station affected any new or revised time tables.

All roads doing an Interstate business are to be served with copies of this sweeping order within the next few days.

In the way of detail supervision of railroads, this is one of the most important orders made by the commission since it assumed new and greater powers under the public utility act last March.

All public utility corporations, other than common carriers, within the state, other than the commission, shall file schedules rates in the classes of cases in which such lesser amounts were being charged, until the decision of the commission upon the general question of the classes of cases, if any, in which the commission would permit public utilities to continue to charge less than their published rates.

'SOME COLLEGE MEN ARE BUMS'

Rev. J. J. D. Hall Says So in a Sensational Sermon Before Brotherhood.

CHICAGO Sept 7—A sensational address which surprised thousands of Episcopal clergymen and laymen gathered for the annual convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at the University of Chicago, was delivered by the Rev. J. J. D. Hall, superintendent of the famous Gallie Mission in Philadelphia.

The Rev. Mr. Hall delivered one of the old-fashioned sermons calling some college men worse than 'bums' some clergymen worse than 'fakers' and some college useless.

"Oxford, Cambridge, Yale, Harvard, those universities whose hospitality we are enjoying teach us much of religion and God, but don't teach us how to cure sinners," he said.

"The most sensational feature of his speech was an attack on the use of tobacco, and particularly on its use by preachers."

"I have never seen but three 'drunks' in my life who gave up to God and were really converted who did not quit the use of tobacco," he said. "They know that God did not intend tobacco for swine, but some of our preachers don't seem to know that."

"Oh I know that they call me a crank, but the devil can't turn me," he said. "I hate tobacco worse than 'booz' I call it 'booz' because whisky is only a polite Websterian term. What must the preacher think who uses tobacco and preaches that one must be clean in soul and body?"

DONALD LOWRIE AT BROADWAY THEATER

Donald Lowrie a paroled prisoner from the penitentiary at San Quentin, has created a great amount of interest and his talk at the Broadway theater proves that the outside world is eager to hear of the happenings that take place behind the walls of a prison. Lowrie is a very plain说话人 and tells of his own experiences and what he has seen.

The rest of the show is one of the best offerings that has played the popular house in many weeks and it made up of good singing and music and a good line of comedy. The La Boheme Trio Ella Phant, The Marneen Four, Marie Edwards and carefully selected pictures complete a good program.

The management announces a brand new show for Sunday of the holiday order, and good things can be expected.

MAKES NEW ALTITUDE RECORD IN MONOPLANE

HOULGATE, France Sept 7—Roland G. Garros, the aviator yesterday eclipsed the old world's record for altitude by about 8461 feet. Ascending in a monoplane, Garros went up 16,240 feet. At this height the rarified atmosphere caused his engine to stop suddenly and the aviator had to descend to the ground. The previous record of 13,779 feet was made at Vienna, June 29 by the Austrian aviator, Cesky. In the flight the Austrian carried a passenger.

The struggle for first honors is expected to be between the Olympic Club and the Pastime Athletic Club of San Francisco.

Senator Works on Political Burglary.

Senator Works describes himself as a political orphan. He says he is a Republican progressive, not a Roosevelt progressive. Senator Works has not left the Republican party and has no intention of leaving it. He was asked this question by an Examiner reporter in Chicago:

"Then, you do not consider Roosevelt a Republican, even in California?"

"Why, of course he is not," he replied. "His platform renounced the Republican party and denounced it. That is the situation throughout the nation."

In speaking of the program to nominate Roosevelt electors on the Republican ticket, Senator Works is reported as expressing himself as follows:

"Our people," he said, "are making affidavits that may get them into trouble, and most certainly are not true."

"Under our primary law," he explained, "any candidate for State office or the Legislature must make affidavit that he intends to affiliate with the party from which he seeks a nomination, and will support majority of the candidates of that party."

"Then those who are nominated choose Presidential electors. And the electors they propose to nominate have pledged themselves to vote for Roosevelt if they are elected. That is a fraud, and I do not like it."

Senator Works said he could not vote for Taft and would not vote for Roosevelt, hence will vote for Wilson if he votes at all. He thinks the State is likely to go for Wilson in November because of the widespread dissatisfaction with the methods of the faction dominant in the State. In his opinion the Taft Republicans will be moved by resentment to vote the Democratic ticket and that Republican progressives like himself will vote for Wilson as a rebuke to the fraud and chicanery practiced on the voters by the Roosevelters.

If California does go for Wilson it will be one of the most remarkable voluntary expressions of popular sentiment on record. For the Colonel's followers have not only appropriated the name, trade-mark, insignia and machinery of the Republican party for the third-term candidate, but they have a superb machine organization—the only one in the State—are well supplied with funds and are led by past masters in the political game. Nearly all the former lieutenants of Herrin and Ruef are enlisted under the banner of the Lord of the Big Stick, and they show far less scruple in their ambitions than they did in the old days. The machine has a new directing head, but it is manned by the same old bosses. If voluntary action on the part of the people can beat the combination it will be a wonder.

Should that band of Arizona cowboys invade Mexico and get into trouble, the first thing they will do will be to bawl to Uncle Sam for help. Yet they have been warned by our government to keep out of Mexico and not to meddle in the muss on the other side of the border. The pretext for their proposed invasion of Mexico is the report that Americans down there are being mistreated by Orozco's men. Very likely the report is true, but the Americans in Mexico were warned from Washington to get back into their own country or in some place where they could be protected by the Mexican government. They neglected the warning and are suffering the consequences. If the cowboy avengers from Arizona should fall into Orozco's hands and he should shoot them the United States would have no right to complain. The cowboys would have no justification for their invasion, and their foolish expedition would increase the perils surrounding the Americans still in Mexico.

The Negro lawyer who had his pocket picked of $700 in Chicago was not a delegate to any of the conventions. He appears to have bumped into some delegates.

The present storm violates all precedent. Such a heavy rainfall at this season of the year is wholly unprecedented and was entirely unexpected. It will do great damage to the grape, prune, and bean crops and spoil the dry feed on the ranges. While it will do some good, the benefit will be small compared to the loss it will inflict. It is the crowning eccentricity of a freakish season.

Persuading Men to Commit Crime.

There is one feature of the case of the gamblers convicted before Police Judge Smith that is worthy of more than passing attention. The arrest of these men was prompted by private vengeance. As they were guilty, the motive of the persons who had them arrested is not the subject of this inquiry. Every citizen is presumed to give information to the proper authority of any violations of law coming within his knowledge, and fault is not reasonably to be found with a man for presenting to the authorities evidence of criminal conduct even though malice may have prompted him.

In this case, however, the effort to bring the accused persons to the bar for criminal conduct went further than securing evidence against them. The agent employed to secure the evidence on which the gamblers were convicted testified that he tried on several occasions to get the men he was after to sell him pools on horse races.

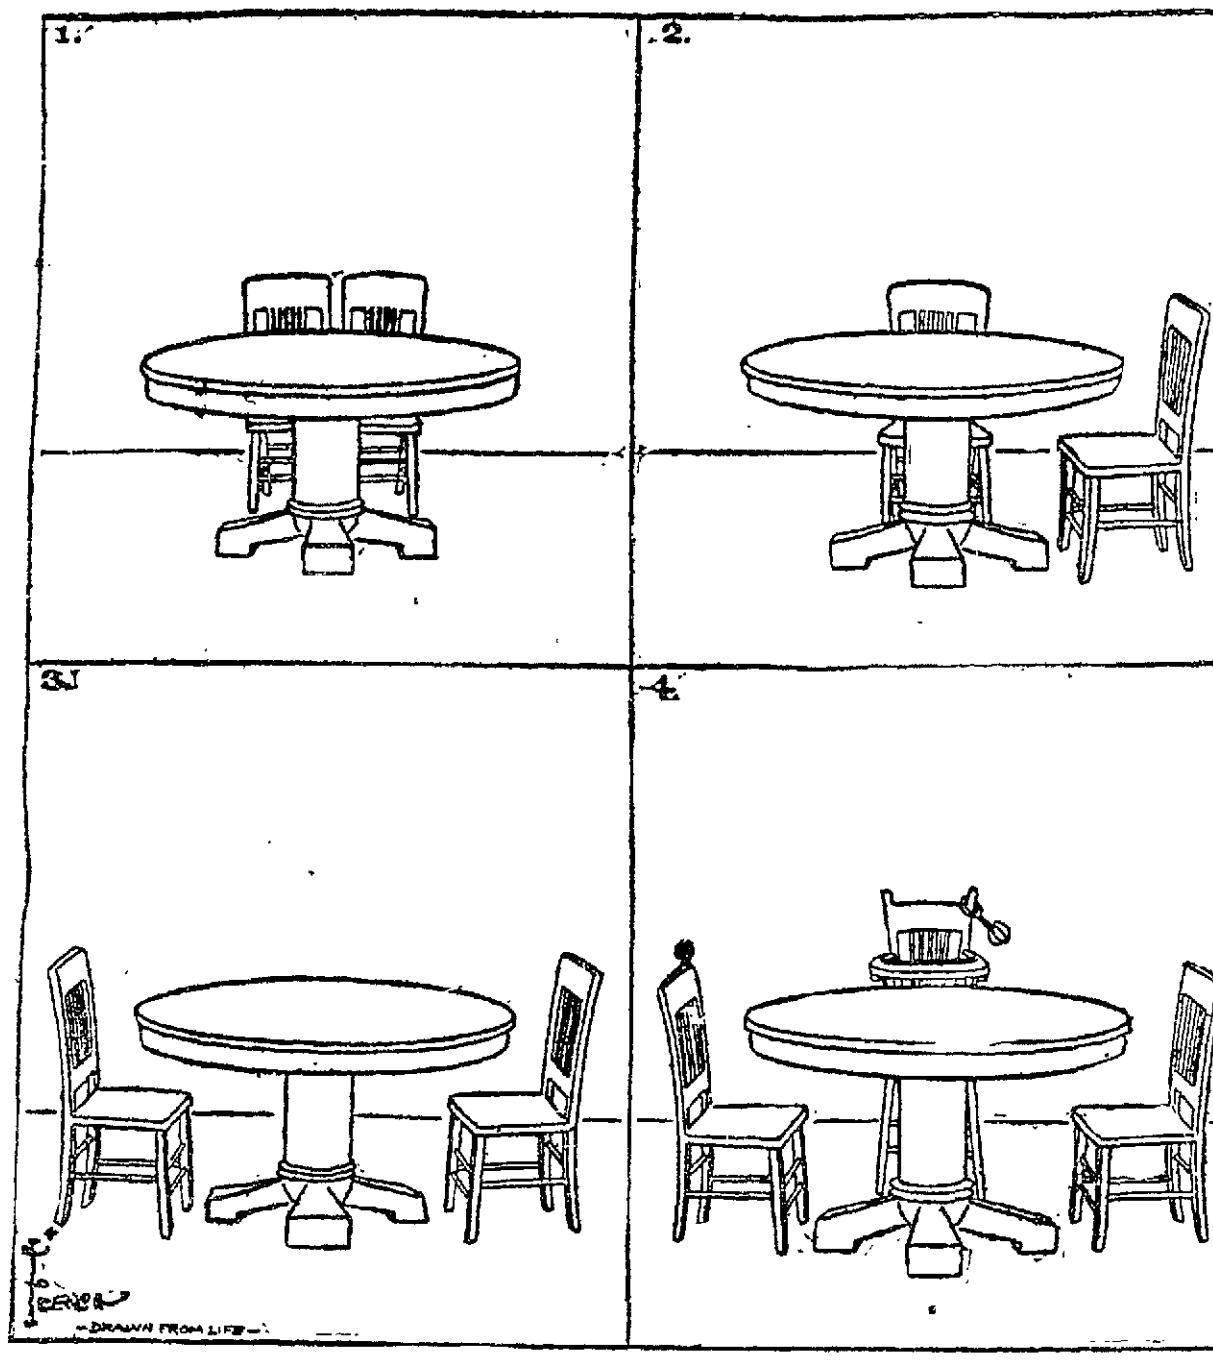

That form of gambling is a felony in this State, and had the gamblers complied with the agent's request they would have laid themselves liable to a penitentiary sentence. They committed a misdemeanor at his solicitation, but they refused to commit a felony at his request.

The point is, that this agent of private vengeance endeavored to induce the gamblers to commit a crime that would have landed them in State Prison. He tried to persuade them to commit a felony. He endeavored to induce them to commit a graver crime than they were willing to commit that he might have them arrested and punished for it.

It is bad enough to persuade another to commit a crime, but it is abhorrent to all ideas of justice that a man, prompted either by self or malice, should solicit another to commit crime with the intent of sending him to prison. Inducing people to commit crime merely to prosecute them is dastardly business.

In the case under discussion the victims are not entitled to sympathy, but this in no wise gives a better color to the trick that was attempted on them. An effort was made by guile to trap them into committing a felony. It was made by the stooliepigeon of a sucker after private vengeance. The mere statement of the case reveals the character of the transaction and the moral corruption it involves.

HAPPIEST DAYS OF LIFE

—CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD.

Queer Methods of Reformation.

There was a queer development during the trial of Jimmie Lawler, dive-keeper and ex-pugilist, charged with placing a girl in a house of ill-fame. One of the witnesses testified that a Miss Spurr, who presides over a home for wayward girls maintained by the subscriptions of charitable people, had accompanied two of the girls under her charge, one of them Lawler's victim, on an all-night joy ride to the various beach resorts. The three women had for company two contractors and a city employe. The testimony was not contradicted.

While there should be no haste to condemn Miss Spurr until she has been heard in her own behalf, the story told by the witness is very much to her discredit. If true, she is utterly unfit to have charge of wayward girls, and her "home" is the very last place a girl under probation should be sent to. Moreover, the contributions which maintain her institution are obtained by false pretenses. Instead of striving to reform wayward girls she encourages them in dissolute courses—that is, if the story told by the witness be true.

It was not alleged, we believe, that any indecencies between the parties took place during the ride, but making a round of the beach resorts under cover of darkness has an evil look. The beach resorts have an unwholesome reputation, and they are frequented, especially at night, by a fast crowd.

What was the matron of an institution such as Miss Spurr conducting thinking of when she acted as chaperon to two young girls who had once gone wrong in places given over to revelry? No wonder the officer who placed the Bretagne girl in the Spurr home, transferred her to other quarters and other care when he was informed of the joy ride taken in the matron's company. Joy riding around roadhouses at night is not the way to reform girls, or even men, inclined to dissolute courses. It is misdirected charity to support an institution, the head of which encourages and takes part in such expeditions.

The vox populi vox Dei theory received a hard jolt in the South Carolina primary elections. Governor Cole L. Blease was renominated by a small margin in an abnormally large vote. Blease represents about everything in politics that a decent man would disapprove. He is a vulgar, blatant, blustering, foul-mouthed demagogue of the most offensive type. He stands charged on good evidence with being a grafter, a bribe-taker and a seller of pardons. Yet he bellowed his way through the campaign, calling all who opposed him liars and scoundrels, and managed to corral a majority of the votes. Blease's success is a withering satire on popular government.

Bull Moose may be popular in Vermont as game, but not as President.

GOOD NEWS FOR FARMERS

An accidental discovery made recently by a Missouri agriculturist is calculated to do more for the "back-to-the-farm" movement than anything that has happened in rural life since some genius converted barbed wire fences into a complete telephone service, and put every gossip-loving farmer's wife on a party line.

This Missouri con king, through one of those fortuitous such as have given to the world the telegraph, and gunpowder, and steam engines, and other great inventions, fell into his wife's white pottering and found a way to induce the farmers of the West to adopt the silo, and save the 60 per cent of food value in cornstuffs which now go to waste, and when Tama Jim Wiles heard the news about the sudden demand for these modern necessities of the farm he prepared to get out a bulletin. Meanwhile silo jacks are spreading through red handbooks and like an epidemic of mumps at a prep school, and farmers are making enquiries now who buy feed for the stock. Great in science—and in the art of silo construction, and before he could scratch out had awoken the tremendous gulf of the West at the bottom, which had been produced by fermented ensilage.

Inclined at first to turn his attention of distress, as there except in his entranced mind a realization that he had discovered a way to beat the local option laws and the city liquor man who sold him bottled prussic acid and prune juice with a deceptive label on it. The Washington Post

AMERICAN SCHOOLS IN 1911

The number of school children in the United States in 1911 was 23,010,501. That covers 13 years, including all children just completing the fifth year and passing into the sixth, and all up to the age of 18.

In 1910 no State enrolled exceeding 85 per cent of its school population; no State held in average attendance more than 54 per cent of its enrollment, and only nine States had an average school year longer than nine months. On the other hand, five States reported an enrollment of less than 65 per cent of the school population, and ten States showed an average attendance below 65 per cent of the total enrollment.

LICHENSTEINS FOUND GUILTY

Two Brothers, Friend and Attorney, Are Convicted of Conspiracy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Nate and Sam Lichtenstein, their friend, H. I. Joseph, and Milton Nathan, their attorney, were convicted by a jury before Judge B. V. Sargent, sitting for Judge Carbenas yesterday, of criminal conspiracy. They can be punished with a maximum sentence of a year in jail and a fine of $5000 each. They will appear for sentence next Tuesday.

They were convicted upon the testimony of Mrs. Lichtenstein, the wife of Nate Lichtenstein, who swore to the complaint against the men and charged that they entered into a conspiracy whereby she was induced to go to lunch with Joseph at the Bay State Restaurant and there to be discovered by her husband, and has brother, Nathan, the attorney and his clerk, as witnesses.

She claimed that the families of her husband's brothers had taken a dislike to her and that it had finally resulted in the brothers employing Nathan to have detective placed to follow her trail. She charged that they had poisoned the mind of her husband against her and that it resulted finally in her going to lunch with Joseph and being discovered in what Joseph attempted to make a compromising position.

She excused herself for going to the Bay State Restaurant on the ground that Joseph was her husband's best friend and an intimate family acquaintance. After lunch in a booth downstairs she had asked her to go to a parlor upstairs to look at a purse he proposed giving to her, and which he pretended to telephone to Shreve & Co. to have sent to the restaurant.

MEN BREAK IN.

Instead of going to a parlor they were shown into a suite of rooms. She sat down for a moment, as she had a bad headache, and before she was really conscious, she found that what was doing the work of his coat and vest. At this moment the four men burst in upon them, the door not being locked.

George A. Knight was chief counsel for the convicted men and made an address to the jury in which he picked many apparent flaws in Mrs. Lichtenstein's testimony. His excuse for not putting Joseph on the stand was that if Joseph testified against the woman "he would be a dog," and that if he took the stand and did not tell the truth he would be a perjurer.

All the men are well known in business circles. The Lichtensteins conduct a real estate office at 29 Montgomery street. Joseph does a large business as a wine agent and Nathan is an attorney.

GOSSIP FROM SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

Meredith on the Lily

So the Jersey Lily is going to flavor us with her harionic gift (such, as it is) in a series of farewell performances. Well, if this continues the Langtry will be a under-up in the game which Patti played so profitably. The last time I saw Lily Langtry in San Francisco 'twas her farewell appearance. But never mind. Even at sixty—King Edward's flame was born a '52—a pretty woman may change her mind. I am reminded by the news of that delicious bit in one of George Meredith's letters published in this month's Scribner's. Meredith in 1882 wrote thus of a performance the Lily gave: "She is the real shepherdess of the chromolithographs. She has to faint, and she takes broad gaunt strides to fall on the ready mes of the dance prepared to receive her. She has to make love, and does it with all her arms and breasts. Very handsome—of a shade of mystery or variability; be heroine for bold diagonals." But what does Lily care? The new Britannia gives eight lines, just six less than to Mrs. Jet Campbell, so her place in history is assured.

A new generation has grown up since the Jersey Lily first allowed San Francisco the privilege of seeing her. I think it must have been in 1884 that she came here with the late Freddy Gebhardt in her train. She took a house out at Twenty-first and Fair Oaks streets while she was waiting for the divorce which freed her from Langtry. She used to walk from her Mission to Golden Gate Park every morning, and the good housewives never missed the opportunity of looking at the amorous beauty, invariably offsetting their curiosity by severe remarks on her notorious frailty. She had no sooner received her decree than Langtry had, and he Lily is said to have complained that he caused her a great expense which she might have avoided had he been considerate enough to die a little sooner. It was bought at the time that she would marry Gebhardt, but she married the Bathie instead. However, Freddy had in the meantime bought her a big ranch in Lake county, so the connection was worth while for the Lily.—Town Talk.

It Was Just a Mistake

It all came about through a mistake by Mrs. Eleanor Martin.

Of course it was not a faux pas. La, la, la, jamaïs! Just a mere mistake and not serious one at that.

Mrs. Martin has so much milk of human kindness that it would keep a dairy inspector busy certifying to it. She can't refuse a favor by the painless method, but bows over the necessity of refusal. The other day a young woman asked her to end her influence to the successful launching of an Endowment of Motherhood Society. When it was explained to Mrs. Martin that the plan is in operation in other States, and that it means that the State offers some support and protection to mothers while they are in confinement, she was willing to further the campaign.

It was suggested to her that personal efforts to the newspapers would insure publicity to the project, and Mrs. Martin agreed to sign the letters if the typewritten copy was prepared. The next morning the club reporters on all papers received requests from Mrs. Martin, asking them to attend the meeting and give it good notices. To be sure, the letter intended for the young woman on the Chronicle went to the Examiner, and vice versa, but that was a mere detail.

But the one that went to the Pacific Union Club instead of a dinner invitation did damage the peace of mind of the hand-stricken young man who received it. A request from Mrs. Eleanor Martin cannot be overlooked by an ambitious young bachelor, but when said request is an appeal to interest himself in the Endowment of Motherhood, ambitious young bachelor, whose ambitions run to steel and iron, not to flesh and blood, is naturally in a hectic flurry over the request.

"What in the ducce can I do about it?" was the plaintive interrogation put to a loosely grinning clubmate, who made a great many fertile suggestions, which somehow failed to impress the young man as practical. Finally he decided to write to Mrs. Martin and tell her that the plan seemed noble and fine and the fact that she was endorsing it would carry great weight with the community, but he didn't see just how he, personally, could render any assistance to the Endowment of Motherhood.

Fortunately, the letter did not go into the mail. A married man told him of the tactful woman have of sending the note for the dressmaker to Hubby, and Hubby's weekly letter to the modiste.—News Letter.

She Wants a Divorce

Mrs. Mabel Hopkins Quinn will sue for an absolute divorce from her race-track husband, Charles Quinn of Louisville, Kentucky. Mrs. Quinn has spent the early summer in her mother's home at Woodland, where her little daughter, whom she greatly fears will be abducted by the father, is under the constant eye of a detective.

The romantic marriage of Mabel Hopkins to the Louisville racing man created a furor among the smart set, as her engagement had been announced to Dr. Edmund L. Gros, of Paris, at a coming-out ball given by E. W. Hopkins at the old Palace Hotel.

Mr. Quinn was noted for her wonder-ful beauty as a debutante. She is the sister of Edward W. Hopkins, and cousin of Mrs. Will Taylor, Mrs. Gus Taylor and Mrs. Fred McNear.—News Letter.

She Is in Limelight

Now Mrs. Edward McLean, of Washington, much dislikes the publicity with which her name is forever connected. First, it is her hundred million dollar baby, then her Hope diamond, and what next? The fact of the matter is, Mrs. McLean is a "big shot" in the social world, and the painting for $10,000, "I seen the oak myself," she said triumphantly, when upon the man moved away, apparently overwhelmed by the evidence. Our gallant manners need mending. You don't hear much talking in the Metropolitan, and heaven save the mark! you don't see much there with their hats on. It seems that we are still too exuberant to be schooled into temporary gentleness by pictures. But never mind, all in good time our educa-

Ragging Is on the Wane

Ragging is on the Wane. The Holiday Coast and Ocean Beach professors of the noble art will soon find their occupation gone. They will return to the less strenuous, if not less strenuous occupations of "singing beer" or driving a sandwich cart. Already it has been noticed in The Wasp that Mrs. Bowie Derrick has issued the ultimatum to the members of the Junior Assemblies, "No ragging."

It is understood thoroughly that this ultimatum does not mean "no ragging—perhaps" or "only an occasional rag." It means just what it says, and woe betide the dancing youth or imprudent maiden who dares violate the edict. "Slam" bang will go the doors of genteel society behind them.

Songs multiply that ragging is destined to become a lost art in the halls of the elect of society and fashion. At the Will Crocker's dance at "New Place" last week, only the Boston and the waltz were permitted. What those at the top of the social heap do those of the lower strata always emulate.

If ragging is proclaimed the exclusive privilege of the rough-necks and sans culottes, even these nonwhites, privileged in impropriety, will disband. Most assuredly the day of the Ragged and Texas Tommy is passing.

Mrs. Crocker is considered very straightforward in social matters and often frowns on some of the gay doings of the smart leaders. She chooses very carefully the associates of her children.—The Wasp

A Hint From Placerville

City Librarian Weatherwax of Placerville made an interesting find a few days ago. He was engaged in indexing the books of the city library when he came across two bulky volumes weighing eight or ten pounds apiece. They were the title "Monasticum Anglicanum." They were published in London in 1665. Written in Latin by members of the Franciscan order, they recount the coming of the Franciscans to this country and deal at length with the founding of the first Franciscan missions on the Pacific Coast. The two volumes have been forwarded to the University of California Library. They had been in the Placerville library so long that all trace of the donor was gone. There are notations on a fly leaf of one of the volumes in an English hand, and it is thought that they were brought to old "Hangtown" by an Englishman during the days of the gold fever. This find suggests the possibility of many rare volumes being hidden in out-of-the-way places in Northern California. Those who occupy old houses or buildings might find it worth while to rummage around in attics and store rooms and on dusty bookshelves. There is a great deal of this sort of rummaging done in the East, and in the Southern States particularly it has brought to light many a treasure long sought by collectors. Since the San Francisco items of California are very valuable. Why don't the good people of the interior look about them? They may have prizes of which they know nothing.—Town Talk.

He Owned "Treasure Island"

There appeared on one of our hotel registers a few days ago the name of William Greig who came here from Honolulu. Very few people in San Francisco know who William Greig is, but doubtless they would gaze at him with interest if told that up to a few days ago he was the owner of "Treasure Island."

It may be objected that when Stevenson conceived the idea of his famous story of pirate treasure he had no particular island in mind, but nevertheless it comes to be accepted that the romance was written around Christmas Island in the mid-Pacific. Christmas Island, or, as it is just as frequently called, "Treasure Island," was until recently the property of William Greig. Even had Stevenson repudiated it as his original (and he never did), there would still be sufficient romance surrounding it to draw the attention of those who love stories of adventure. Many a tale of piracy, treasure, and blackbirding has been told of Christmas Island: on its coral shores lie the blood-drenched skeletons of many a wreck. For years the Greigs were known all over the Pacific as the owners of the little atoll. But now it has passed out of their hands, having been acquired by a German syndicate for a steamship depot at a price said to have been $27,000 in cash. The sale was negotiated by an odd character, also well known in the mid-Pacific, one Father Rouquier. The transaction was brought to a conclusion just before William Greig came to this city.—Town Talk.

A Joke on a Town

An unknown wag caused a wave of indignation to sweep over the town of San Rafael some days ago. At the outskirts of the town, on each of three roads leading into the town, he planted a large white cross draped with mourning and bearing an inscription asking the traveler to reduce his speed out of respect for the memory of the dead village. If no reward has been offered for information as to the name and whereabouts of the author of this most offensive calamity on a very decorous community, it is not because the people have repressed their curiosity. "It is because they would have it forgotten as soon as possible. But if they ever find out who perpetrated the joke, heavy will be his punishment. San Rafael is not as gay and festive a place as it was when the Baron was running his hotel over there, but it is not as slow as one might fancy on a quick trip through an automobile.—Town Talk.

Lively Times at the Presidio

It has been a brisk week at the Presidio, owing to the official visit of Secretary of War Stimson. What a lively army post the Presidio is now compared to the little garrison of former years, before the troops were taken from the frontier and concentrated around the great cities.

Secretary of War Stimson found experienced and gallant officers and most charming army hostesses ready to extend to him the hospitalities of the command.

By the way, Colonel Cornelius Gardner of the Presidio is the father of two strapping sons, who are graduates of the University of Michigan (Alpha Delta). Allen Gardner has a grape fruit ranch in the Isle of Pines, Cuba, and Fred is a First Lieutenant in the Marine Corps engaged in restoring normal conditions in Nicaragua. Mrs. Gardner, whose graceful hospitalities have established her at once in the high esteem of local society, is the second wife of Colonel Gardner.—The Wasp.

A Fierce London Critic

The Daily Express, a London newspaper which suffers from the rabies whenever it discusses anything "peculiarly American," has had a spasmodic over the recent social activities of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish at Newport. "Twice within the past week," says the Express, "we have had occasion to report from America the brainless vulgarity of two rival hostesses, who have given entertainments designed to fascinate the eyes of the public and arouse the curiosity and envy of their less fortunate sisters. The vast fortune of American millionaires, accumulated for the most part by tireless industry and intrepid enterprise, are frequently spent patriciously and with the constant idea of improving the social conditions of the country. There is, unfortunately, a minority whose many dollars are not accompanied by either imagination or good taste. Nothing, indeed, more pitifully vulgar can be conceived than this competition between Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt as to who could spend the most on an evening party. Mrs. Vanderbilt spent £2,000,000 ($10,000,000) on jewels, and the painting for $10,000, "I seen the oak myself," she said triumphantly, when upon the man moved away, apparently overwhelmed by the evidence. Our gallant manners need mending. You don't hear much talking in the Metropolitan, and heaven save the mark! you don't see much there with their hats on. It seems that we are still too exuberant to be schooled into temporary gentleness by pictures. But never mind, all in good time our education will be improved by the news that millionaire wives were diamonds on their slippers, and the Socialists and Anarchists all over the world have received an effective argument for the redistribution of wealth.—Town Talk.

Fight at the Olympic Club

In the Eastern newspapers this summer there have been frequent references to the James B. Haggins of Kentucky. James Ben Ali Haggins (his full name) was formerly a California partner of the late Senator George Hearst, father of the celebrated newspaper publisher. He was also a partner of the late Lloyd Tevis, founder of the well-known and very rich Tevis family of California. Haggins and Tevis were the principal members of the copartnership, and were known all over the Pacific Coast and in New York financial circles before their marriage. Hearst became a prominent figure. Haggins was the mining expert of the combination, and it was said that few better ever lived. His judgment of mines and mining prospects was almost infallible. When Hearst recommended the purchase of a mine Haggins and Tevis financed it, and the firm grew in wealth amazingly.

It is understood thoroughly that this ultimatum does not mean "no ragging—perhaps" or "only an occasional rag." It means just what it says, and woe betide the dancing youth or imprudent maiden who dares violate the edict. "Slam" bang will go the doors of genteel society behind them.

Blanche Bates' Engagement

Blanche Bates' engagement to George Creel, one of the new literary lights of America, seems to settle the question of Dick Taittinger's life membership in the Old Bachelors' Brotherhood. Once upon a time the newspapers devoted some space to Blanche Bates and Dick whenever they met in the halls of social pride and pleasure. Mr. and Mrs. Cool did more than their share of benevolence in trying to bring the leading professional actress and the first amateur tragedian of America into the state of mutual hypnotism that can only end in the Lehengruen march, orange blossoms, "kiss me, my child!" and a shower of rice and old shoes. These were glad days and nights in the exhilarating atmosphere of Los Gatos and Bohemia. But either the amateur tragedian or the most illustrious of actresses declined to be thoroughly hypnotized. Let's say, for the sake of argument, that she was engaged to George Creel, who was one of the shrewdest of men, saw that the express business in the West was destined to become very remunerative, and he became one of the principal stockholders in the Wells Fargo Express Company.

It was their great possessions in land, however, that made the firm of Haggins & Tevis notable amongst the millionaires of the West. They owned a principality in Fresno county, the land having been acquired when most people thought the arid plains around Patterson were only good for sheep or jack-rabbits. Haggins & Tevis knew better, and their judgment has been verified fully, for valuable crops of alfalfa are now raised on the former desert, and Fresno is the center of the important raisin business of California.

In the eighties James Ben Ali Haggins began to take a lively interest in horse-racing. Tom Williams, our great turfite, was the title. The Olympic Club is a big proposition, and if an executive manager resides in the club who will go around and see for himself what is being done, and has the ability to say no, objectionable matters will be righted.—News Letter.

It is understood thoroughly that this ultimatum does not mean "no ragging—perhaps" or "only an occasional rag." It means just what it says, and woe betide the dancing youth or imprudent maiden who dares violate the edict. "Slam" bang will go the doors of genteel society behind them.

Songs multiply that ragging is destined to become a lost art in the halls of the elect of society and fashion. At the Will Crocker's dance at "New Place" last week, only the Boston and the waltz were permitted. What those at the top of the social heap do those of the lower strata always emulate.

If ragging is proclaimed the exclusive privilege of the rough-necks and sans culottes, even these nonwhites, privileged in impropriety, will disband. Most assuredly the day of the Ragged and Texas Tommy is passing.

Mrs. Crocker is considered very straightforward in social matters and often frowns on some of the gay doings of the smart leaders. She chooses very carefully the associates of her children.—The Wasp

A Social Innovation

The possibilities of the rubber-neck wag-on or chump chariot as a vehicle of social entertainment were too long overlooked. So thought a clever woman a few days ago. She proceeded at once to lift the sightseeing automobile out of its protracted and into the smoothly macadamized boulevard of gentility. Her effort was a great success. The inspiration for a novel form of diversion stood the acid test and did not evaporate when reduced to actuality. A rubber-neck wagon was chartered one night last week, loaded with a merry party and whirled (insofar as a rubber-neck wagon can be whirled) through Golden Gate Park to the Cliff House. It is true that at the start there was some evidence of social consciousness. The party assembled at the St. Francis, but lacked the courage to mount their vehicle in the glare of the electric lights. After all, social innovators may be allowed a certain measure of timidity. So the chump chariot was discreetly kept around the dark corner in Post street, and the ride began in an atmosphere of secrecy. But the tourist feeling wore off quickly, and the purely social sense of pleasure at the prospect of a successful party was augmented by a feeling of exhilaration—such a feeling as city folk enjoy on a hay ride.

For instance, Dick allowed himself to get so over some alleged bad acting by Henry Miller that he declared publicly that if Henry had as much conscience as an Oakland Creek clam he would refund the audience their money. The taunt stung the famous actor so deeply that in the heat of the moment he sent his check to Dick for the $10 the clubman had misappropriated in tickets. Dick pocketed the money.

It was plain proof that Mr. Taittinger was with the greatest of the chump charioters should disappear forever in the light of certain expert opinions which I have gathered from some of those who attended the opening of the latest born social idea. Since theaters were invented humanity has been victimized, and more agony is surely ahead of us. Dick himself, I am sure, was not so over some all the characteristics of the progressive sociologist, who would, first of all, have realized (the being an amateur theorist himself) that humanity can only rise to higher levels by ages of suffering. The Medallion

HE man or woman who does not wear a tag on September 28 will be credited with one of the hardest hearts in town. For a tag on that day expresses one's sympathy in a movement which has for its object the protection and care of old ladies, who have no friends of their own; it means the care of little children whom a sad fate has deprived of a mother's love, and it means an effort to care for sick and dependent poor.

It all appeals to our hearts, and people mean, in the main, to be kind and sweet and sympathetic. So the whole city bids fair to blossom out in a perfect wilderness of tags.

It is a very sensible plan for three well-known philanthropies of the city to combine their efforts to provide for the sick, poor and the dependent women and children. It is a great burden that some of our leading women bear each year, and the wonder is that they do it so gladly, so cheerfully, so uncomplainingly.

The three charities that have combined this year to provide for the winter for these charges are the Ladies' Relief Association, the Fabiola Hospital Association and the Providence Hospital Association.

The Ladies' Relief work is the oldest philanthropic work in Oakland, the first charity to be established in pioneer days, and it has held the respect of every one and challenged admiration at all times by its well administered affairs. Its noble work for helpless old ladies and the home it has given little ones have represented a philanthropy worthy in every way and one full of ideals.

The sick and poor we have always with us, as indeed the hospitals know. In these days of high prices one wonders how the sweet women manage to keep the hospitals going. They admit to lying awake nights to do it, and they worry just as much as if the hospital affairs were affairs of their own home lives. They have to keep going somehow, and men would go to pieces over the worry of not knowing exactly how bills were to be paid. But women trust in Providence, and they are hopeful, and they are pulled over the hard places, and the charities go on. In hospital work it is amazing how many calls they have. They cannot explain from the house-tops the amount of charity they do, but they must always respond to the calls of women and children, for suffering is hard to see, and the amount of help gladly and generously given is astonishing. If a mother can be saved to her dear little ones, if a child can be spared to a joyful mother, the women who guard hospital affairs are amply repaid for their work and worry. It is the day when women do many things, but those which they will always do best must concern themselves with the care of women and children.

So in a tag day for charity lies the heart of a beautiful ideal, of a broad and helpful brotherhood, of a tender fellowship which makes us pause in our day's work to help along the highway those less strong than ourselves.

In the time to come many of these philanthropies will be taken over by the state. We will have comfortable homes for the old people whose race is almost run. The state will be the family, the state will do that charity which is now left to the efforts of women. They have always led the way in philanthropy, and it is right that it should be so; but their efforts would have been many a time unavailing but for the generous support of the men, who gladly aid in any good work that the women try to do. And they are always very distinctly proud of that work.

A tag day is very sensible, because in placing the burden upon a great many no one has anything to carry. A man wearing a ten-cent tag is asked for nothing more. And it is better that everyone should contribute, ten cents than that a few should give much. There is a new bond of sympathy in the community when we all join in some helpful project and have that community of interest that comes when we fulfill a duty to those dependent upon us. So the tag day ought to shine out on our horizon with a clear light, pointing the way to many of us, and illuminating a pathway wherein lies help gladly given to those who need it. The grandest ornament we can wear on that day is just the tag, which means that we are all members of one great family, and the strong will protect the weak.

"Not what we give, but what we share."

For the gift without the giving is here."

SOCIAL SEASON
TO BE A LIVELY ONE.

With the opening of the season important events line up on the social horizon, and there are indications of a season of unusual activities.

Cards will be out very soon for important weddings, and several large Miner, Mrs. Everson, representing Mrs. René Chabot, who is away, Mrs. Isaac Requa, Mrs. Thomas Hoxon and Mrs. Arthur Thomson. Miss Mollie Connors is to be the general secretary of the tag day committee.

The committees are rapidly being organized, and they include some of the most influential women of the city, and some of the best workers along philanthropic lines. The names of the committee and the workers represented in them will be announced in a few days next week.

The first meeting, which always opens the season, is a very interesting dance, since many of the debutantes of the winter make their formal bow to society. The second ball, scheduled for the 20th, will be a Christmas party, and the third will be a happy New Year affair.

The first meeting, which always opens the season, is a very interesting dance, since many of the debutantes of the winter make their formal bow to society. The second ball, scheduled for the 20th, will be a Christmas party, and the third will be a happy New Year affair.

Mr. Greenway carries off the palm for planning social affairs. Some experience has given him the needed training. He makes up his guest list practically without much interference, and in that he is perfectly right. In the past certain prominent women across the bay have tried to wrest the power from the social Czar, but Mr. Greenway has always gone the even tenor of his way and calmly watched his adversaries go down to inevitable defeat. So today he has undisputed social sway, and the "Greenway dances" are prominent social dates of a San Francisco winter. Many girls make their debuts at the Greenways, quite as their mothers did before them. The decorations are always wonderfully planned, along the lines of the Friday Night dances, always so popular among our young people. Mrs. T. C. Coogan is the chairwoman of the patronesses, and she is planning to call a meeting in the near future. The dances last winter were successful, and they had fair to be equally so this year. Many of the Junior Assembly girls, who have danced in that club for the last three or four years, are now old enough for the Friday Night dances, and expect to be invited to them this season. Meanwhile the younger set are almost reduced to tears that the

The Parkers spent several months across the bay, but to the joy of their relatives and friends they returned early in the year and are established in a home at Linda Vista. Mrs. Parker made Junior Assembly seems so suddenly to have gone to pieces. It surely cannot be because "it was not exclusive enough," for that would be the fault of the patronesses themselves. That is why they are patronesses—they are responsible for the lists. As girls and boys grow up they, of course, outgrow the Junior Assembly, but a large contingent of young people stand ready to take their places, and they ought to be given the chance. At Piedmont especially some very charming young girls are growing up. This year finds them in high school work, and very shortly they will need the Junior Assembly. It was a most successful club and its work should be carried on by the different patronesses whose daughters are of the age to enjoy the informal dances. The debutantes meet people of all ages—there is a large receiving party always of bright young girls, very pretty, very winsome, very attractive, and there are the matrons who come to add dignity and importance to this first formal appearance of the young debutantes.

Two of the most important receptions of last year were those given for Miss Dorothy Taft and Miss Nellie Adams.

Among the girls who will make their debuts this coming winter are Miss Helen Acker and Miss Dorothy Capwell. Miss Acker is a graduate of the Oakland High School, and she recently returned with her mother from a visit of several months in the East. Mrs. Acker was for three seasons one of the patronesses of the Junior Assembly, and Miss Acker was one of its most popular members. Mrs. Acker is sending out cards for a large reception for the last Thursday in September in honor of the formal debut of Miss Helen. The latter is a very pretty girl, and bids fair to be one of the most popular of the winter's debutantes.

Miss Dorothy Capwell is a graduate of Mills College, and has spent the year since her graduation in travel in Europe, going abroad with her mother. A large marquee was built in the garden in which the wedding supper was served, and the decorations here also followed the general line of pink and blue, the bride's table being in pink tiger lilies, with true lovers knots of blue and white tulle.

The bride's gown was of white charmeuse, the new material which is so attractive and so very fashionable this season.

The overdress was of rose point lace and the wedding veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap of orange blossoms. The costume was very fashionable this autumn to choose pastel shades for decorative effects, the pale pinks and blues of the azaleas, tiger lilies and hydrangeas lending themselves with fine effect to well-chosen color schemes. So the bride of Wednesday evening chose pastel shades for the color effects of her wedding, and the result was most artistic. Pink tiger lilies were the motif for the decorations of many of the rooms, the lilies being arranged in picturesque fashion in baskets and tied with blue tulle. And in the drawing-room there was a bower of tiger lilies, in which the ceremony took place.

shades in the color scheme. Their home in New York, and she is spending some weeks in Oakland on a visit to her sister, Miss Harriet Knight. Old friends of the Knights are complimenting Mrs. Gray in many ways, and Mrs. Rodolph's evening is sure to be a delightful affair.

Mrs. Henry Heilbron, mother of the groom, wore a most effective costume of duchess lace over white satin.

Mrs. M. J. Laymance's gown was of blue charmeuse, most elaborately trimmed in gold lace.

Many elaborate gowns were worn at the wedding by the relatives of the bride and groom, and the occasion was a brilliant social event.

The presents were costly and very elaborate and will serve to remind the bride very often of her Oakland friends. One of the most important presents was the new home in Sacramento, given by the Heilbrons to their son and his bride. The home was completely furnished by the M. J. Laymances.

Mr. and Mrs. Heilbron Jr. are away on their wedding trip, and on their return they will make their permanent home in Sacramento, where the groom has, with his father, extensive business interests.

FORD-MILLER WEDDING SET FOR WEDNESDAY.

Next Wednesday is the date set for the wedding of Bernard Ford and Miss Marian Miller, and few weddings have met with so sincere approval from both families of the young people. The Fords are very fond of charming Marian Miller, and the more so because they have no daughter of their own. Miss Miller has been extensively entertained, and one of the largest affairs given for her was the dinner dance on Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas of Ross. The jolly dinner dance was given at Pastor's, the famous restaurant in Marin county, and among the guests at the elaborate dinner and at the dance that followed afterward were:

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ford, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. G. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. A. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. George McNear, Mr. and Mrs. William Watt of Napa, Mr. and Mrs. Latham McMullin, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Miller, Miss Laura Baldwin, Miss Ernestine McNear, Miss Helen Dean, Miss Dora Winn, Miss Constance McLaren, Miss Marian Crocker, Sydney Ford, Walter Hush,

Miss Elizabeth Livermore and Miss Elizabeth Livermore are opening their home this week on Russian Hill, across the bay. They have entertained during the summer many parties at "Montresol," their charming country place in Sonoma county. Miss Beth Livermore will go to Germany this summer, and she will be the guest in Dresden of her sister, Mrs. Alfred Hurgen, who was formerly Miss Matilde Livermore.

After a delightful summer, spent in Santa Barbara, Mrs. William Clift and Miss Jean Clift have returned to town and are guests of Mrs. Clift's daughter, Mrs. Martha Seales, at her Linda Vista home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walsh, who have been in the Sierra all summer, have returned to town and are again at "Malakul," their attractive home at Linda Vista. Mrs. Walsh will assist her daughter in receiving her guests at the tea which she is giving next week for Mrs. Reed and for Miss May Coogan.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon, who have been for some time at Tahoe, returned home this week. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knowles are planning to build adjaher guests of honor were Miss Harriet and Miss Marian Stone and Mrs. George Riddell of Baltimore.

ENTERTAINMENTS FOR CHARMING BRIDE.

The coming of Mrs. Thomas Watson (Nina Clay) to her old home here will be the signal for much entertaining in her honor, for the young bride has many relatives who are greatly devoted to her. Her mother, Mrs. Harrison Clay, will entertain for her, as will her aunt, Mrs. Harry East Miller. Mrs. Robert Lee Stephenson will also entertain for the charming young bride, who, with her husband, is planning to arrive in Oakland in a few days.

MRS. HARRY MILLER PRESIDES AT TEA.

Mrs. Harry East Miller was a hostess of the week, presiding at an informal tea at her home on Palm avenue. Her guests were the members of the chancel chapter of St. Paul's church, and among those invited to her hospital home were Mrs. Requa, Mrs. Mark Requa, Mrs. Oscar Long, Mrs. H. C. Taft, Mrs. Crellin, the Misses Crellin, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Bruce Hayden, Mrs. Clarence Shuey, Mrs. Vernon Waldron, Mrs. Newton Koser, Mrs. Alexander Allen, Miss Helen Allen, Mrs. Everts, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. N. A. Arker, Mrs. Sam Brock, Mrs. Allen Babcock, Mrs. Harrison Clay, Mrs. Sam Prather, Mrs. E. C. Prather. The tea was very informal and represented a delightful reunion of friends.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss May Heitman, whose picture is in tonight's Meddler, was one of the quartet of bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Hazel Laymance and Henry Heilbron Jr.

Miss Heitman is a Sacramento society girl.

Miss Dorothy Taylor and Miss Frances Ramsey also were two of Miss Laymance's bridesmaids.

Mrs. Oliver Rousseau is a bride of the week whose wedding is of much interest. At Miss Irene Caubu she had many friends.

LEADING SOCIAL EVENTS OF COMING WEEK.

Two most interesting social events are scheduled for next week, the dinner to be given by the Associated Charities on Thursday evening at the Ebell hall, and the luncheon to be given on Friday at the Key Route Inn by the Civic Center.

Among the distinguished visitors to our state this autumn are Dr. and Mrs. Cabot of Massachusetts, who are guests of Dr. and Mrs. Philip King Brown of San Francisco. They are very noted people, Dr. Cabot being one of the very best known physicians of New England.

Mrs. Cabot is equally distinguished. She is a member of the Boston Board of Education and has been much interested in many phases of advance work. She is a brilliant woman—a most interesting speaker, and one who has accomplished wonderful work for girls. Many people wish to hear her and the Civic Center is most fortunate in being able to have so brilliant a guest of honor.

The Oakland Civic Center promises to push forward into a wide field of work in the coming year, and this luncheon is the first large date of the season.

HOME CLUB OPENS ACTIVITIES.

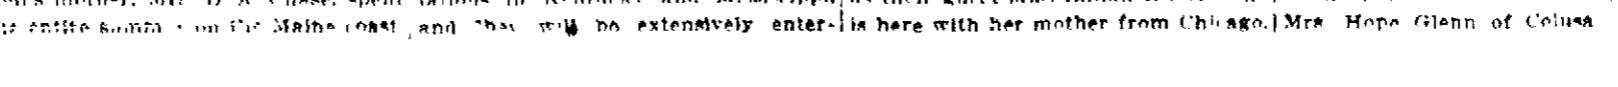

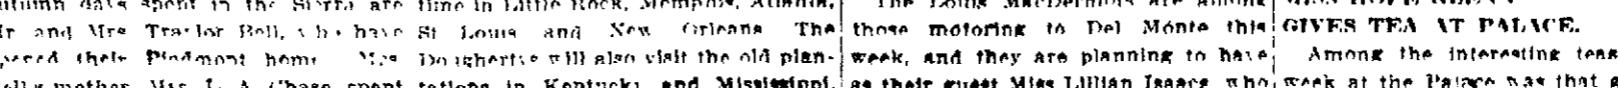

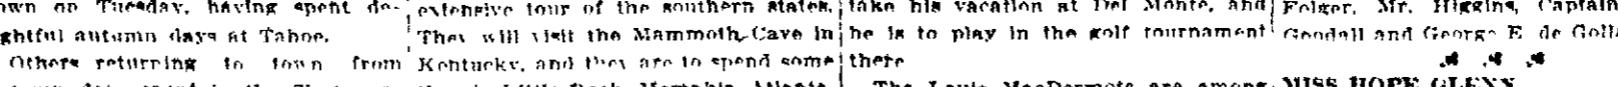

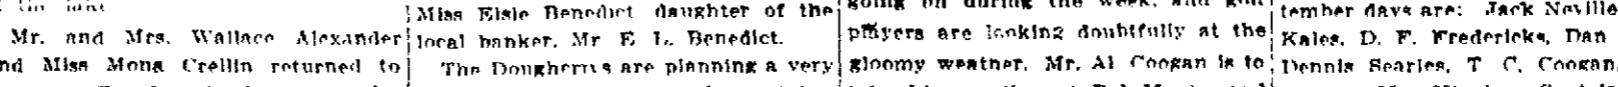

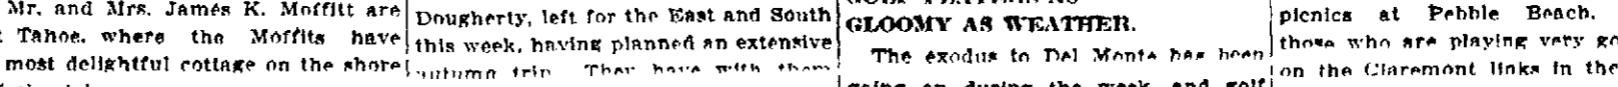

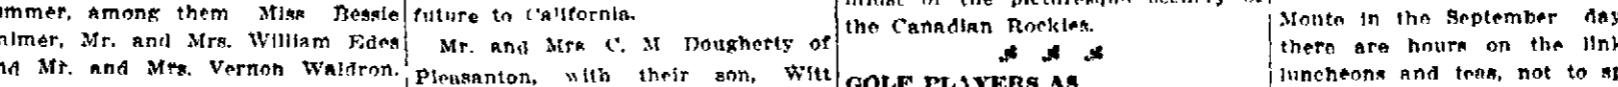

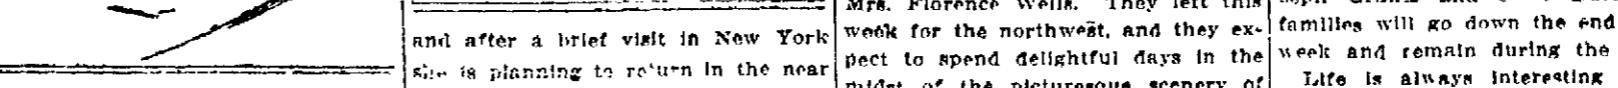

The Home Club opened the activities of the winter on Thursday evening with the monthly dinner, which has proved so popular with the many members of the club. The dinner at the Home Club represents very much the same thing that the Tuesday luncheon does at Ebell. One may invite guests and may be sure that they will be delightfully entertained, for the menu is perfectly planned, and there is always a program of a great deal of interest. The dinner last Thursday evening was given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Capwell, the latter the former president of the club. The hosts of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Breed.

After dinner Dr. Melville Tenney gave a stereopticon lecture, "Glimpses of the High Sierra," and later there was dancing.

The Arthur Breed's entertained at dinner at the Home Club on Thursday evening, among their guests being Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leach, Dr. and Mrs. John Louis Louise, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Leet, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Tenney, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leckie, Dr. and Mrs. Maxson.

At the Home Club luncheon on the nineteenth Mrs. C. B. Vincent will be the presiding hostess, and the program is being planned by Miss Ethel Moore.

WOMEN IN THE NEWS 'ENGAGED A LONG TIME,' SAYS MISS IVES

Fiancee of Scotti Denies the Affair Involving Miss Farrar.

NEW YORK Sept. 7. The
dear wife of expert fencer Antonio Scotti said to have won him at cost of Geraldine Farrar's broken heart, tripped down the gangway of the Mauritanian yesterday and blinked her dark eyes at a semi-circle of cameras.

"Yes, it's true, as reported, that I'm engaged to Signor Scotti," said Charlotte Ives. "But, although it's just been announced, it isn't an affair of weeks or days. We have been friends for years and engaged for two years."

Miss Ives absolutely denied, so far as her knowledge went, that there had ever been an affair of heart between Scotti and Miss Farrar, who is now ill from nervous breakdown in a sanatorium on the Continent.

"Miss Farrar and Signor Scotti have been friends, but only as artists," said the tenor's fiancee. "I do not believe there is anything in the story."

Beauty Carrie Dead

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Carrie Meyers, Beauty Carrie, whose two years of youth were the play and toast of millions, was the bride and toast of millions, companion of Colonel James Donovan, the lumber king, and United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, will be buried by the county in the potter's field, unless some friend claims her body at once.

The victim of morphine, the once popular and beautiful actress, who was the hit of the famous "Black Crook" company, lies on a worn wooden slab in a dark corner of the county morgue.

On September 4 she was arrested and appeared the next morning in the police station, a slovenly, feverish-eyed old woman.

"Dope and raising a disturbance," said
the policeman who made the arrest.

Judge Goling fined her $10 and costs.

She had no money and went to the Bridewell. Three days in a cell without morphine drove her hopelessly insane and on the third day she died, no one noticing pitiably for the drug. Zester-ing her identity came to light.

Married on Bet

RENO, Sept. 7.—Maurice C. Fitzmaurice, possessor of estates in Ireland, England and Canada, a practicing attorney and member of the legal profession, and his wife, a professor of Greek in Cambridge University, England, yesterday were upon the witness stand in his divorce court in an effort to secure an absolute decree from Mary L. Fitzmaurice. He said his wife married him on a bet.

Coming home one evening three days after the return from the honeymoon, Fitzmaurice says he found his wife with a man. She immediately began to sing "Tra-la-la-boom—do—aye," because she knew he disliked the song. Then she kissed the man.

"Did you haul off and strike him?"
asked Judge Moran.

"Why, no, I didn't strike him," replied Fitzmaurice, "because he was an effeminate sort of a man, always playing silly jokes."

Finally his wife took the old china and silver and pawned it, and this was the final straw and then she departed with a man who looked like Captain Rollison of the Scotch militia. This completed his anguish, and he came to Reno for a divorce. The case was taken under submission.

Powder Does It

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Mme. Nordica, the fair Lillian, who helped make California vote for women suffrage and who, off the stage, is Mrs. George W.
Young of New Jersey, has lost twenty pounds, all through discovering little white powder which she puts in her bath water.

Mme. Nordica yesterday explained all the workings of the powder, but not its makeup, and her husband admitted that he had lost two pounds through using the powder once.

The opera singer started her search for the powder in order that she might take off enough weight to do the circulating staircase scene in La Tosca in Boston this winter.

Bride on Way East

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Jennie Crocker Whitman of California, accompanied by a caravan of dogs and a huband, went through Omaha last night on her way to New York City. Mr.
Whitman, who had planned for one private car, while the dogs and their valises were scheduled for the other. Mrs. Whitman divided her time between the dogs and the husband, said the grooms. At the Union station here the car occupied by the dogs was disinfected in order that the smell of the South Omaha packing-houses might be eliminated.

Injured While Riding

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—After an accident in which she was thrown from the Russian river to Sausalito, Miss Molly Sidebotham, a well known society lady of the East, and sister of Mrs. Umberto, wife of H. P. Umberto, Italian man, who this city was brought to the Adler Sanatorium with what was at first thought to be a broken arm, which she had sustained while horseback riding.

Miss Sidebotham is spending a holiday with her sister and was in a house party given in her honor at the home of her brother-in-law and sister on the Russian river. Miss Sidebotham was thrown from her horse, and as there was no doctor to be had she was driven to Sausalito, where a special launch was ordered to bring her to the city. The boat capsized, and she was thrown into the injured woman was brought over on the ferry boat, suffering intense pain.

On her arrival at the Adler Sanatorium the doctors found that she had broken her hand.

Miss Sidebotham is a great society famous in the East and is well known there through her frequent visits to the city.

DID CAMPAIGN FUNDS INFLUENCE CONGRESS?

MORGAN TO APPEAR IN SENATE

Relation of Contributions to Legislation Will Be Investigated

Rockefeller, Carnegie and Other Financiers May Be Called to Testify

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—When J. P. Morgan takes the stand before Senator Clapp's committee investigating campaign contributions, he will be questioned not only about campaign contributions of 1904 and 1908, but also about any possible connection between any legislation in Congress and contributions in the period from 1900 to 1912. This was learned today before a conference between Chairman Clapp and Senator Pomerene, at which plans for the resumption of the hearing were to be arranged.

The date of Morgan's appearance has not been determined. He has been on the committee's list of witnesses since July, when he waived service and told Chairman Clapp he would come at almost any time.

Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller may be called upon if developments warrant in the investigation of the Penrose-Archbold-Roosevelt controversy. William Rockefeller will be called in connection with Archbold's recent testimony about an alleged contribution of $10,000 by the Standard Oil Company to Roosevelt's fund in 1904. It has not yet been determined to call E. H. Gary and Henry C. Frick.

Ormsby McHarg, one of the Roosevelt managers in the pre-convention campaign, has been asked to appear. The committee wants to question him about expenditures in behalf of Roosevelt's candidacy at the Chicago Republican convention.

Deposed Police Inspector of N. Y. Testifies Against Waldo.

Declares Commissioner Protected Resorts Making a "Show of Decency."

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—An ordeal of cross-examination was ahead of Cornelius G. Hayes, deposed police inspector, when he reached headquarters for the second day of his trial on charges of making false statements reflecting on Commissioner Waldo.

Hayes was on the stand when adjournment was taken yesterday. He insisted that Waldo had given him orders not to molest disorderly houses, making an "outward show of decency."

When Hayes took the stand the first question was:

"What did you conceive to be your duty toward disorderly houses when you first went to the fourth district?"

"To proceed against them, get evidence and suppress them. That was my duty until I was ordered by my superior officer to do otherwise."

"HIGHER-UP" ORDERS.

Hayes said that after Waldo had forbidden him to raid disorderly houses where there was no outside evidence of disorder he (Hayes) instructed his men not to enter the houses to get evidence. He added that he told Waldo what he had done and Waldo approved.

Hayes intimated that the official stenographer's report of his conversation with Waldo wherein the alleged false statements were made had been tampered with.

A letter from Commissioner Waldo to Hayes, the latter said, embodying Mayor Gaynor's directions that policemen should disintegrate the old method of getting evidence against disorderly houses by the means of each house, put a stop to the practice.

The letter was placed in evidence. It embodied a declaration imputed to Mayor Gaynor that the passing of men, in numbers, to and from houses harboring women, should be taken as evidence that the houses were disorderly.

Berkeley Professor Declares
No Man Can Predict Future of Biology.

BERKELEY, Sept. 7.—That science will one day produce the life principles but may eternally be unable to produce complex life principles is the opinion of Professor S. S. Maxwell of the department of physiology. Yet he declined today absolutely to predict such a failure, saying that science had already accomplished such wonders that it was difficult to conceive that it could not do so.

Professor Maxwell was discussing the statement of Professor E. A. Schaefer of the University of Edinburgh this week that he had predicted the life principles of the cell. When asked if he gave the name "hermes," Professor Schaefer holds these tiny organisms responsible for such vital determinations as sex, the functioning of the nervous system and the like.

Professor Maxwell says:

"Chemical life has been produced in many chemical laboratories by scientists, said Professor Maxwell. The complex life of the cell, which he gave the name "hermes," Professor Schaefer holds these tiny organisms responsible for such vital determinations as sex, the functioning of the nervous system and the like."

"The subject is a most interesting one. One that hundreds of scientists and physiologists are working on and it would not surprise me if some of these advanced scientists, after years of research, created life in a more complex form than science has been able to do up to the present time."

FAILS TO OUST HART FROM JOB

The Mayor of San Jose Is Not Upheld in Charges Made.

SAN JOSE, Sept. 7.—At a lengthy session of the mayor and common council the city fathers voted to acquit Alexander J. Hart, member of the police and fire commission who had been charged with wilful neglect of duty and violation of the State law making it a misdemeanor to permit the use of premises leased or owned for political purposes. Mayor Monroe brought the charges in a second attempt since his inauguration to oust Hart from the commissionership.

Hart testified that he had leased the premises in question a rooming house over the Hart stores at Santa Clara and Litchston streets to Ed Alviso and that he was unaware Alviso was using them for illegal purposes until he returned from an eastern trip recently. He then began proceedings to said to oust the tenants. The mayor and police were aware of the use of the place, Hart said, until he himself informed them. He was corroborated by a number of his clerks and business men in the neighborhood of the place testified that they had noted no disorder.

Following the judgment of the council, which was agreed to by Councilmen J. E. Robinson, E. A. Mansfield and F. R. Huston and which was opposed by Councilmen W. G. Mathewson and Theodore Brabaska, the mayor applied to the city attorney, John W. Sullivan, as to his authority to veto the council's action in this phase of the matter. It is still undecided.

Hart had been a fire commissioner as a police and fire commissioner for two weeks. He is one of the most prosperous merchants in San Jose and is widely known in business circles.

BISON FILM FEATURE AT CAMERA THEATER

One of the most spectacular picture plays of the season is being seen today at the Camera theater. It is a masterful production by the Bison 101 company entitled "For the Honor of the Tribe." A shepherd guarding thousands of sheep is killed by an Indian, who gives a great feast with the sheep he steals. Through a clever ruse the identity of the guilty man is discovered by the soldiers and when confronted by the troops admits his guilt. The Indian is condemned to death. The man who came to prevent his arrest, but for the honor and peace of the tribe, consents to the execution, claiming the privilege of shooting his own death. This occurs in a highly sensational scene.

On the program will be the "New Animated Weekly," and several other new reels or exclusive photoplays.

LIFE CHEMICAL? IS THERE A SOUL?

Scientists Bravely Tackle Various Subjects, Including Drunken Flowers.

DUNDEE, Sept. 7.—After daringly facing the problem "Is Life Just an Arrangement of Chemicals?" the British Association for the Advancement of Science went a step further and debated the question, "Is There a Soul, and If So Is That Too Merely a Chemical Affair?"

At the close of the amazing argument the members were ready for any new theory, even that love, hate and piety are just chemical processes.

Professor Giddes, declaring the discussion was timely and necessary, said: "We are escaping from the old separation of corpse and ghost which left nothing but the dissection table and the spook."

During the day it was learned that there are such things as drunken flowers. Professor Keeble declaring that if one made certain white flowers, notably the pure white primul and the white sweet william, intoxicated with alcohol, which will flush scarlet just as a human being unaccustomed to drink would do.

HORSE LEADS WAY TO DYING MAN

Patrolman's Mount Refuses to Pass Veteran Lying in Creek.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—The warning given by a handsome black charger ridden by Patrolman A. J. Ross of the mounted squad, saved the life of Edward J. Meany, a Spanish-American war veteran, who resides at the old soldiers' home at Yountville, at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Meany was discovered half submerged in a creek in a lonely section near the San Bruno road and is now at the Mission Emergency hospital with a good chance of recovery.

Ross was riding on his lonely beat, his horse going along at a canter, when the animal suddenly stopped and refused to move. The peculiar action of the horse led the policeman to dismount. The horse had walked off the road and started down the embankment. Wonderfully Ross allowed and immediately caught sight of Meany. The veteran was lying with his head and shoulders above the water and spoke only incoherently when dragged forth. After being taken to the hospital he revived partially, but is still unable to give a connected account of his misadventure.
